

Tennis Canada recognizes outstanding tennis communities for their work growing the game in 2015

The award for Rookie of the Year is presented to a person who has accomplished in a year what a community can usually only hope to do in three years. Norman Rothsching is the very definition of an entrepreneur – in just one year, Norman has developed a program of ‘Try’ activities involving more than 1,000 kids aged four to 16 years old, implemented Learn to Play programs, and Team Tennis leagues with over 100 youth. He has contributed to the development of Granby, Que.’s tennis infrastructure with the addition of $\frac{3}{4}$ -court lines and mini-courts in a school yard. He is a great leader for the regional association of Richelieu-Yamaska region, establishing a non-profit organization now called Tennis Granby.

<http://www.tenniscanada.com/tennis-canada-recognizes-outstanding-tennis-communities-work-growing-game-2015/>